WRECKED AKRON BELIEVED FOUND BY U. S. CRUISER

Message Reporting Discovery Sent to Capital By Commander

BOARD OF INQUIRY CONTINUES PROBE

Main Body of Airship May Have Been Located By Grapplers

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 18.—The navy today received a message from Captain Herbert P. Leary, commander of the cruiser Portland, saying: "Believe Akron located."
The message came shortly after noon, a little after reports from the naval tug Sagamore had reported that grappling operations at the scene of the airship's fall had located a large sunken object.

Inquiry Court Continues
Meanwhile, a naval court of inquiry was proceeding here with its investigation into the Akron disaster.

The message was sent to the cruiser Portland, headquarters of the sea search for bodies and wreckage from the lost dirigible. It led to the belief among shipping men that the main body of the airship might have been located.

As made public by third naval district authorities here, the message read:

Fouls Heavy Body
"On second trip across between buoy and grapple fouled body heavy enough to part three-sixteenths inch chain stopper. Fabric remaining on grapple containing two sliding round ports about 12 inches in diameter. Fabric marked port station No. 18 forward. Falcon now anchored over this spot."
The Falcon is another naval tug engaged in searching the area.

Verdict of Judge In Vasko Case Is Upheld by Court

NEW YORK, April 18.—The appellate division of the supreme court today upheld the right of Judge George Smyth of the Westchester county children's court to order an operation performed on two-year-old Helen Vasko, who, to prevent medical intervention was spirited away from her home at Hastings by her parents.

Helen Vasko is suffering from a malignant tumor in her left eye, which doctors believe will cause her death unless it is removed, although the operation would cost the sight of that eye.

The parents, recent immigrants, refused to permit the operation and agents of the children's society took the matter to Judge Smyth. He ordered the operation but stayed his own order pending ruling on it by the appellate division.

While the higher court was considering the matter Helen's twin sister fell ill and the parents barricaded their home against every one, including doctors and police.

Mau Improves

CINCINNATI, April 18.—Steady improvement was reported at Good Samaritan hospital here today in the condition of U. S. District Attorney H. E. Mau. The district attorney underwent an operation for appendicitis at the hospital Sunday.

JAMES J. WALKER WEDS ACTRESS

Former Gotham Mayor, Betty Compton Married In Cannes, France

(By Associated Press)
CANNES, France, April 18.—Former Mayor James J. Walker of New York and Betty Compton, American actress, were married today.

The couple entered the city hall here by the back door to avoid the curious onlookers.

They were married at 11:15 a. m. by Mayor Gazagnaire of Cannes. Witnesses for Walker were his lawyer, Alfred Shaven, and his hotel proprietor, M. Martinez. Dr. Joseph Fisher, Walker's physician, was witness for Miss Compton.

The bride's mother, an Associated Press correspondent, and one other person were the only additional spectators at the ceremony.

Immediately afterward, Mr. and Mrs. Walker ran through a group of photographers and an inquisitive crowd, escaping without disclosing their immediate plans.

Third for Miss Compton
The marriage of Miss Compton, one-time Broadway star, and the former mayor of New York, is her third venture into matrimony and her second.

They had been friends for five years. As early as 1928 they were seen together at night clubs, but reports linking their names did not become a matter of public record until Samuel Seabury's investigation, which culminated in Walker's resignation as mayor.

The hearing brought out the existence of the marriage.

Warren Man Faces Mann Act Charges

CLEVELAND, April 18.—Violation of the Mann act was charged today in a warrant filed against Homer Akin, 42, whom authorities said is a young held in Warren, O., with a young girl who has been living with him.

An agreement permitting the girl to live with Akin, an Ashtabula county farmer, until she is 21, was signed by her mother, authorities said. The woman, it was explained, wanted to provide that the couple would not be arrested in every town they visited. Officers said the girl was hired as a maid in Akin's house.

WALTER B. HILL HEADS COUNTY LAWYERS' UNIT

East Liverpool Attorney Sixth President of Bar Association

J. C. BOONE NAMED VICE PRESIDENT

Another Salem Attorney, Joel H. Sharp, Is New Secretary

LISBON, April 18.—Walter B. Hill of East Liverpool was elected president of the Columbiana County Bar association at a meeting in No. 1 court room Monday afternoon. He is the sixth president since the county group was formed in 1897. The late N. B. Billingsley of Lisbon served as president of the association for approximately 20 years, and until his recent death.

Boone Vice President
Former Probate Judge J. C. Boone of Salem was elected vice president, succeeding Mr. Hill, while Joel B. Sharp, also of Salem, was elected secretary, succeeding Homer W. Hammond, recently elected probate judge.

Other presidents of the Bar association have been J. H. Brookes of East Liverpool; L. P. Metzger, Salem; William H. Vordrey, East Liverpool; and William B. Moore of Lisbon, the retiring head of the body.

President Hill was instructed to name a committee to discuss with Judge W. F. Lones and the Farm and Home Protective committee for this county recently appointed by Gov. George White several phases of the foreclosure moratorium.

Reports On Funds

Attention of the association was called to the fact that the law library fund has not been receiving its full quota of funds from the municipal court at East Liverpool, the last check received from that source being for $1.80, according to a report submitted by Attorney Charles C. Connell.

Large framed pictures of five former county jurists are to be placed on the walls of No. 1 court room, these being W. W. Hale, J. M. Smith, N. B. Billingsley, James G. Moore and W. H. Spencer.

The name of James McDonald of Wellsville was submitted to the executive committee for admission to the county bar.

Prisoners In Discontent
Every activity connected with her reached a high pitch, rumblings of discontent were heard among the prisoners at the state penitentiary where she has been kept under a death watch.

Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, who had given evidence intended to show their daughter was insane when called as witnesses 15 months ago at the trial at which Mrs. Judd was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Lerol, testified there had been insanity on both sides of the family. In one instance, they said, it reached back 125 years.

Mrs. Judd's attorneys petitioned the state board of pardons and paroles for a reprieve to include the 13th of May, which would, under usual procedure extend the day of execution to May 19, since hangings in Arizona by custom are held on Friday.

Her counsel said it was not likely this sanity hearing, Mrs. Judd's second, would be completed before next Friday. They said time also was needed for preparation of an appeal to the United States supreme court.

Dr. William C. Judd testified his wife was suffering from dementia praecox.

"Naturally Insane"
"God himself could not coach that woman to act insane," he told the jury—"all she has to do is act natural. From intense dejection she rises to the most supreme exhilaration."

While he was testifying Mrs. Judd suddenly shrieked, "Leave me alone!" Her features were contorted. Her hair streamed over her face.

"Quit torturing me! You bullies! You cowards! You gangsters! Quit torturing me!"

Two matrons put their hands over her mouth in an effort to quiet her. She bit them. The court ordered Warden A. G. Walker to remove her from the courtroom and he carried her out, fighting and screaming. "They keep torturing me—the bullies!"

Warren Telephone Rate Hearing Is Postponed Week

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., April 18.—Hearing of the Warren Telephone company's rate fight with the Ohio utilities commission before a special master in chancery, was postponed for one week late yesterday.

Edward G. Miller, general manager of the company was the first and only witness for the company at yesterday's session.

He traced the history of the company from the time of its formation down to date.

Under cross examination by T. J. Herbert, of counsel for the commission, Miller testified the Warren Telephone company paid dividends of $30,000 on its preferred stock in 1932. This, in Herbert's opinion, was far too high for the amount of capital invested in the Warren Telephone company.

According to Herbert, the fact that the Warren Telephone company paid such a large dividend was an indication it was paying a "melon" to the stock holders of the Warren company, a holding company for the Warren Telephone company.

Herbert declared the Warren company issued $400,000 in preferred stock and $800,000 in bonds, whereas the Warren Telephone company which was under the jurisdiction of the Ohio commission, was authorized to issue only $245,000 in preferred stock and $800,000 in bonds.

The continuance was granted at the request of attorneys.

Blonde Winnie Judd Fights Court at Hearing on Sanity

"Trunk Slayer" May Not Be Led to Gallows On Friday; Reprieve Is Asked

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 18.—The Arizona board of pardons and paroles today granted Winnie Ruth Judd a reprieve until April 28.

(By Associated Press)
FLORENCE, Ariz., April 18.—With a jury still hearing evidence as to whether Winnie Ruth Judd is raving mad at times or is actively feigning insanity, it seemed likely today she would not be led to the gallows Friday.

The blonde 28-year-old woman, who has confessed slaying her friends, Agnes Anne Lerol and Edwig Samuelson, in Phoenix and was captured in Los Angeles after their dismembered bodies had been found there in trunks, was carried fighting and screaming from the courtroom late yesterday.

Every activity connected with her reached a high pitch, rumblings of discontent were heard among the prisoners at the state penitentiary where she has been kept under a death watch.

Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, who had given evidence intended to show their daughter was insane when called as witnesses 15 months ago at the trial at which Mrs. Judd was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Lerol, testified there had been insanity on both sides of the family. ## NOTABLE ARRAY OF DIPLOMATS BOUND FOR U. S.

Important Men Parading To America to Discuss Important Things

BRITISH, FRENCH ENVOYS COLORFUL

Wilson Only President to Sit With So Many Foreign Powers

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 18.—The most notable array of foreign statesmen ever to visit the United States on a common mission started a parade to the White House today that probably will carry on for a month and a half.

Discussion of the world problems they will tackle has taken attention to a considerable extent from the personal prestige of the visitors. Wilson was the only other American president to sit with so many outstanding foreign notables during his term of office and he went to Europe to do it.

Many Notables Enroute
Premiers of Great Britain and Canada, men who have headed the French, German and Chinese governments, and outstanding statesmen of Italy, Japan, Mexico and Brazil are on their way here or soon will be. Argentina and Chile still are to make their choices of representatives.

Two of the most popular post-war statesmen of Europe are crossing the ocean from England and France. They are Ramsay MacDonald, four times premier of Great Britain since 1924, and Edouard Herriot, who is still rated generally as the dominant figure in France although a protégé of his now heads the government.

Both are men who rose from the masses, the 65-year-old MacDonald from a Scottish fisherman's cottage and the 60-year-old Herriot from a gendarme's home.

MacDonald a Pacifist
MacDonald, known as somewhat aloof and dour, has stirred the imagination of British of all classes by his remarkable career. He was a pacifist and almost in disgrace during the war. In recent years he has been transformed from a Laborite to a virtual Conservative and

"CURB SERVICE" BEER IS BANNED

Neither Can It Be Sold On Trains, Is Ruling Of Ohio Commission

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., April 18.—"Curb service" of 3.2 beer is banned in Ohio.

Motorists may stop at their favorite restaurant, wayside inn or similar establishment and buy sandwiches, ice cream and soda pop without getting out of their cars, but beer may be served only at tables.

This is one of the latest rulings of the state liquor control commission, which met yesterday and announced that copies of its orders would be sent to prosecuting attorneys with a view to full enforcement of the law.

No Selling on Trains
The commission also prohibited the sale of beer by vendors in trains and buses. Passengers, however, may buy the beverage in station restaurants.

Edward T. Dixon, chairman of the commission, said the control body would not wait for arrests before enforcing the law.

BREAKS ON STAND WHEN HE RECALLS SCENE OF SHOOTING

Mahoning Court Room Doors Barred As Defendant, Accused of Murdering Wife, Claims Innocence

(By Associated Press)
YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 18.—Cyrus H. Neff, wealthy lumber dealer on trial charged with murdering his wife, broke down and wept on the witness stand today as he told of shooting Mrs. Neff at their elaborate home in Canfield, near here, last October.

Neff said that as he prepared to retire the night of the shooting Mrs. Neff was asleep on a couch in the music room. He decided to take a shotgun upstairs with him, because he had more money than usual in the house, and there had been several robberies in the neighborhood.

Neff testified he thought the gun was unloaded, and intended to load it before going upstairs. He said he approached the couch to rouse Mrs. Neff, and "put the gun on the pillow" to awaken her. Then he went on, he raised the gun and reached toward his wife with his left hand. As he did so he said the gun was discharged.

Spectators today were limited to holders of 100 passes issued by counsel. Judge George H. Gessner yesterday afternoon cleared the courtroom of all but lawyers, reporters and relatives of the Neffs, resulting in a turbulent scene as disappointed crowds surged through the corridors and banged on the doors.

Neff's direct examination was completed shortly before noon today, and state's attorneys began cross-examination.

Tells Life History
Neff, taking the stand shortly after the noon recess yesterday, sketched his entire life. He told of an accident in which he lost the sight of one eye, of his first marriage and divorce and of his meeting Mrs. Neff, with whom he fell in love and ultimately married.

Neff, showing some signs of nervousness, nevertheless appeared cool and collected yesterday, as he told his story. He frequently spoke in a low tone, took sips from a glass of water occasionally, and continually was ordered by the court to speak louder.

The defendant told of his "little feelings of jealousy," aroused when his late wife refused to accompany him to the Canfield bank when Robert Richolt, Canfield, was at their home. He admitted his jealousy but said that he and his wife were "very devoted" to each other.

Spectators Storm Doors
Before Neff took the stand more than 100 spectators, eager to hear his story, stormed the doors of the courtroom, demanding to be admitted. Deputies, however, stood guard, refusing to allow any persons except members of the Neff family and relatives and friends of attorneys, witnesses, court attaches and newspapermen to enter. The crowd was barred on orders by Judge Gessner who said that it was of such large proportions that the audience had proved difficult to handle.

One spectator, Mrs. Mathilda Caranza, 47, of Youngstown, became hysterical, shouting, "I want to see! I want to see!" when she found the entrances barred. She was taken to the county jail office where she said she had just recently been released from a hospital.

Arrest Two Youths On Robbery Charge

Two Salem minors, arrested shortly after the Pennzold gasoline filling station was burglarized Sunday, today were reported by Police Chief Ralph Stoffer to have admitted a series of petty thefts occurring here in the last few weeks.

Enroute to investigate the gas station burglary after it was reported to them, police saw the youths walking along the road and placed them in custody as suspects. Questioned later on, the boys are said to have confessed.

Both were placed in custody of Probation Officer J. M. McCready who plans to arraign them before Probate Judge Homer Hammond in Lisbon today.

LIVING COMPANIONS

An idea held steadfastly against opposition and nursed through the discouragement of listlessness on the part of the public is the foundation of the American Humane association and all other organizations similar to it. The association, which is asking newspapers to assist it in promoting observance of the 1933
"Be Kind to Animals Anniversary," claims that its influence is spreading constantly.

If anyone be inclined to doubt
that a humane attitude toward all animals is the possession of only a minority, let him examine the extent to which it prevails. Its influence is felt universally. Brutality has been forced into a defensive attitude.
There is no place in the United States where animals may be abused openly without reprisals from an aroused public opinion.

No longer does ownership of animals imply the right to abuse them.
Either by direct objection or the steady pressure of disfavor needless abuse has been outlawed. When one considers that this holds true in all cases, from treatment of household
pets to preparation of animals for slaughter in packing houses, it is evident that the idea which has been fostered by the anti-cruelty
organizations is more than an impractical dream.

Fortunately, there is less intentional cruelty than there is unintentional cruelty. Consideration for animals as living things becomes,
therefore, an objective which may be gained in most cases by education.
There are few human beings so utterly without capacity for humane-ness that they willfully will challenge the right of man's living companions to a place in nature's scheme of life.

PLENTY OF MONEY

During the time of intensive agitation for payment of the matured
value of the adjusted service certificate held by veterans it was not uncommon to hear the statement that there was plenty of money in Washington. Sometimes it was accompanied by the facetious remark:
"They make it there." That may or may not be a fair representation of the American conception of his government's currency. Fair or not,
it was common enough.

Insight into this apparent plenti-
tude of money is afforded by consideration of the way the national debt is handled. That monstrous sum of obligations—$21,360,000,000
on the last day of March—seems due for an overhauling in the near future. Unmanageable in the mass,
its separate parts are becoming downright obnoxious.

The Liberty bonds of fond patriotic memory are one difficult detail. Amounting to more than eight billions of dollars, they entail a burden of interest which keeps the treasury staggering. To pay it and to meet operating expenses during these days when outgo consistently outruns income, there has been added in the years since the government last was able to balance its books something like five billions of debt. This represents the money
which is so plentiful in Washington.

During the current year considerably more than two billion dollars
of this hand-to-mouth financing must be paid off. In addition to that, the fourth Liberty loan, with more than six billions outstanding,
becomes callable next October. Obviously, some more big-scale financing is in order. The evil day must be postponed somehow with conversion of these pressing obligations
into the form of remote obligations
for another generation to worry about.

These are behind-scenes activities
of the government—the momentous operations by which billions of dollars are made to play tricks for financiers. It is a sad commentary on public understanding that the necessity of maintaining the government with injections of credit

from investors should create an illusion of unlimited wealth in Washington—where they make money.

What Others Say

AGING TOIL ROBS CHILDHOOD
Speedy action in the matter of revising the Constitution of the United States evidently depends upon the character of the change to be made.
We are seeing how readily states are snapping into the business of repealing one amendment. Yet so long ago were the forty-eight states
given the opportunity to abolish and prevent child labor that many have forgotten about it.

It is only fair, however, to say
this question has been revived and has brought action recently in some states, but is still a long way from adoption. Now that we are in the business of reforming the Constitution this matter should have a place
in the program.

Many forward steps have been taken in behalf of children since ancient days, when classes grew rich off the toil of poverty stricken waifs. Though many of the evils of that forgotten day no longer wring
the hearts of humane people, children are still permitted, under the Constitution, to labor at tasks for which they are unfitted.

On this subject Sarah Cleghorn's lines still live to shame men. They have been printed in these columns
before, but they have lost none of their satirical potency. We repeat:
The golf links lie so near the mill
That almost every day
The toiling children can look out
And see the men at play.

Unemployment condition of today should serve to stimulate the spirit of this movement for the protection of children against aging toil, the evil that robs them of their happiest years.—Toledo Blade.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, April 19

A rather lively and interesting day
is presaged from the lunar and mutual aspects in stranger influence.
There should be definite progress
made under the stimulus of an aggressive Mars, but this should not be permitted to run rampant to the point of strife, disputes, or exaggerated enterprise. With self-restraint and cool judgment, there should be much profit and advancement both
in employment, in large or public activities, and with cooperation of those in places of authority.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a fairly lively and progressive year, with advancement, financial increase and the assistance or preference of those in power and prestige.

A child born on this day may be

Last Rites for Akron Victims

These pictures show the last rites for three victims of the U. S. S. Akron disaster. Top photo shows the scene in Arlington National Cemetery as Commander Frank C. McCord, skipper of the Akron, was laid to rest with full military honors. In center is the impressive ceremony that marked the last rites for Lt. Colonel Alfred P. Masury, whose ashes were strewn over the waters of the Atlantic, five miles off the Ambrose lightship. Lower photo shows the gun carriage bearing the body of Rear Admiral William Moffett, chief of naval aeronautics, arriving at Arlington Cemetery for burial among the nation's heroes.

As Dictator Hitler Told Reporters How

Not content with being Dictator of Germany, Chancellor Adolf Hitler is here pictured as he enacted the role of dictator to the "Fourth Estate." The Nazi chieftain is pictured as he addressed a gathering of foreign newspaper correspondents and told them what they could and could not transmit to their papers of news occurring in turbulent Germany. Seated (arrow) is Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Minister for Press and Propaganda, who also made an address to the gentlemen of the press. Tales of atrocities against Jews, published by the foreign press, inspired the lectures.

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, April 18—Few question the energy, even though mis-
directed, that swept the banker Charles E. Mitchell to the financial peak. His powerful physique, calm poise and the brand of over-riding arrogance and go-gettism made him a figure. To admirers he was a whirling dynamo.

No other man so typified the glory of the era happily passed. He was up at 6 a. m. to gallop in the park, play a fierce game of handball and appear at his office with the bluster of a tornado. He could not tolerate people around who did not work at fever pitch.

In the spirit of this hypothesis he awakened suddenly to the crumbly cosmos about him. What he lacked, as it seemed to me, is the divine quality of human sympathy.
And it was this very quality he so sorely needed that did not come
to him when his reign cracked.

I am told the day after he was dragged to his despair the reception room of his office was deserted.
He sat alone in the forbidding mansions on the upper avenue that night the phone scarcely rang. Next morning the postman delivered but a single letter. All day he watched the sky. And a few weeks later came his arrest.

The distinguished painter, Joseph

To be fearful of the night."

R. M. Brinkerhoff is reputedly the fastest illustrator living. There is the story of a magazine art editor
phoning him early one Monday
for a rush order that must be delivered Wednesday at 5 p. m. "Brink"
finished it before lunch the same day. But at the hour appointed he arrived at the magazine with the illustration under his arm, fairly swooning and gasping. "I just made it." P. S. He got a bonus.

and then it picks up some girlish
giggle floating from a table and reproduces it with sustained enthusiasm. The contagion of laughter convulses the entire room. Lily Pons grew so hysterical over the mimic-ing the other evening she had to desert her meal for the sidewalk.

The original of Peter Arno's galumphing cutup around town with

Intimate of many in higher social brackets, he has been portrayed by another up-and-coming limner, Ste-

hibited shortly.

Tallulah Bankhead hails almost everybody as "darling." Dick Maney, Broadway super ballyhooist, greets
friends as "foul wretches," while Tom Chalmers, movie news editor
now spreading his versatility in a play, addresses intimates as "you-
mugs." Charles Hanson Towne,
looking down benignly from the Par-nassus of his years, salutes with
"young squirrel." John Golden's is
"Lo' feller!" and to Joe Laurie, Jr., everybody is "Charlie."

No Manhattan playgoer is quite
so ardent as Yale's beloved instructor, Prof. William Lyon Phelps. Yet
he is never seen in the first night
galaxy, or any night for all that. He reviews new shows at matinees, so he can be home in Whitney avenue
in the Slim City for dinner. Like Mark Twain, Prof. Phelps favors
white suits at all seasons, and unlike most of the critical gentry applauds actors at the end of scenes.
He smokes the same brand of cigars
as the late Amy Lowell, knows all the porters and trainmen on the New Haven by name, and reads a new book every time he commutes
to the metropolis. A grand gen-

Broadway's most famous midnight
musketiers were Richard Carle, Pete Daley and Alfred Henry Lewis.
They shined daylight as a plague.
One sunup Daley came blinking out of Churchill's. As usual, not waiting to go home, he hailed a cab and trying to think of some place far away, finally said: "Polo Grounds." Then fell asleep. Awakened two hours later, the driver said: "Here
we are!" Daley coming out of the fog, inquired: "Where?" He was told the Polo Grounds. "All right,"
he said, settling back, "drive around the bases until I tell you to stop."

Exercises for Cross Eyes

From time to time I have outlined for you some of the numerous ailments which attack the eyes. Today I want to tell you something about "cross eyes."

I believe too little attention is given
to this affliction.
In New York
city there are more than forty-
five thousand
school children
who suffer from
"cross eyes." Every child has a right to possess
strong and normal eyes. Children suffering
from cross eyes
are decidedly handicapped throughout life. When the condition is neglected poor vision or even total
blindness may occur in one eye.
Children with this affliction are humiliated and made unhappy.
They are shy, sensitive and in consequence have difficulty in making friends.

Corrective Exercises

Bear in mind that movements of the eye-ball are controlled by groups of muscles. Like other muscles of the body, these will weaken if not given the proper care.
If one muscle of the eye weakens,
more work is thrown on the other muscles. In consequence, the eyeball
may be turned out of its proper position.

By proper care early in life it is possible, in many a case, to overcome cross eye without an operation. Surgery alone was the old time
method of dealing with this unpopular defect. Of course, many parents, fearing the operation, permitted the child to grow up with this handicap.

Recently, clinics have successfully used corrective exercises for overcoming this defect. New instruments have been devised and by the use of these the defective muscles of the eyes are strengthened and corrected.

In addition to the corrective exercises, it is advisable that proper glasses be prescribed. Glasses
should be worn while the muscles are weak. They should always be worn if there is a real defect in vision.

Early Recognition of Defects

Mothers should bear in mind that many children are born with eyeballs so small or so short that the vision is defective. If a child is so afflicted, unusual care must be given to nourish the youngster.
Care in feeding, in out-of-door life,
sunlight and general exercise, will promote the growth and development of the eye. In due time the eyeball will become larger and longer. When that happens the vision will improve and probably become normal. Then the glasses can be discarded.

Guard your eyes and those of your children. Early recognition of eye defects is important. In the beginning they are easy to cure. When neglected, and permanent damage
has been done, cure is often impossible.

I am confident that many children will benefit by the recent advances made in the treatment of
"cross eyes" and other eye disturbances. General health and happiness are improved by the removal of this affliction.

NO EXECUTIONS
WHO TO SELL TO?
TAXES FROM BEER

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1933 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THE Senate upholds the 3-day
week bill, 52 to 31.

The House of Representatives
adopted a resolution authorizing President Roosevelt to forbid any shipment of arms from this country to nations at war.

That power the President might find embarrassing. To sell to one nation, refusing another, would come close to inviting war with the second nation, and would certainly involve unnecessary ill will.

If this country must make money
by selling killing machinery, it should sell to all alike.

DISPATCHES from Moscow indicate that Russia will release innocent one of the British prisoners,
convict them, but execute none of them. From jail they can be released at any time, from a quickness grave they could not be brought back, and even haughty Russia believes that Britain would not take the execution of these men patiently.

The Russian prosecutor says the five Britishers are guilty of offenses for which "the penalty is shooting and the crime deserves it."

"But our justice is soviet justice.
We do not cling too formally to the law."

ONE ENGLISHMAN, Thornton,
accused of spying for the British secret service, was accused also of cowardice and lying. The prosecuting Russian, Vishinsky, said:

"Some day you may serve as fertilizer on our soviet fields. You might just as well be dead now so far as the British intelligence service is concerned."

England will not like that Russian way of addressing an Englishman. British-Russian trade will not be helped by the trial.

WEAK little glass of 3.2 beer
seems powerful when multiplied by the thirst of 123,000,000 people. Government will get in taxes from mild beer $150,000,000 a year, perhaps more. Some hotels and restaurants, leaving the field to speakeasies, are now recovering prosperity. Thousands of young women have found
work twisting pretzels into the right
shapes, and crab fishermen of Chesapeake bay are getting double prices for all they can catch. Beer
and crab meat seem to go together.

Most important, since beer came back, drunkenness and arrests for drunkenness have diminished.

ALSO, in Washington, right under the dome of the capitol, close to the supreme court, yesterday for the first time in 30 years beer was sold in the congressmen's cafe, price 20 cents a glass.

Congressman Delaney of New York said "prosit." Congressman
Berlan of Pennsylvania replied
"skool," and they both drank beer.

THERE ARE tragedies and excitement in "racketeer" life. When police trapped "Big Eddie" Horst-
man, liquor runner in his hotel room, he, with many reasons for not being caught, tied bedsteads together, seeking to escape. A knot slipped, the sheet-ropes broke. "Big Eddie" fell 70 feet to death. He threw two loaded revolvers out of the window ahead of him.

A young lady, 28, found in the room, was released. The police are particularly interested in "Big Eddie's" radio apparatus. They think he ran a "wildcat" radio station
from his room to his liquor fleet.

PLEASANT gentlemen, from different countries, on their way to visit President Roosevelt and his secretary of state, talk "about a world recovery plan." When these gentlemen have left, you will find that their one plan for world recovery consists in unloading a debt of $10,000,000,000, money foolishly lent
to Europe for its throat-cutting activities.

How that will help our problem of world recovery is not clear.

THE CHALLENGE OF LOVE

by WARWICK DEEPING

SYNOPSIS

Dr. John Wolfe, old Dr. Montag's assistant, is stunned at the unsanitary conditions he finds in the smug little town of Navestock. Wolfe realizes his greatest fight in ridding the town of pollution will be in overcoming the resentful attitude of the people themselves who seem perfectly satisfied with their mode of living. He encounters his first obstacle in the person of Jasper Turrell, the brewer, who objects to Wolfe taking a sample of his well water for analysis. Undaunted by opposition, Wolfe continues his researches and prepares a map of the town's unsanitary areas. The one bright spot in Navestock is the home of Mrs. Mary Mascall where Wolfe is always sure of a welcome. When Mrs. Mascall is too ill to go to Fleming Court to pay her dues of three dozen eggs to the Lord of the Manor, Wolfe offers to accompany her young daughter, Jess. According to custom, the farm laborers gather around and ask a blessing on Jess as she appears with her tribute.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

They were old world phrases that had passed from generation to generation, and had been spoken by the forebears of the men gathered before Moor Farm. Wolfe stood and watched Jess Mascall as she came slowly down the path. The girl seemed to have grown taller and older of a sudden. She carried herself with a grave and simple stateliness, looking at each man in turn and saying: "Thank you, Joe—thank you, Barnaby." She passed under the sycamores, and her eyes met Wolfe's. He was standing bareheaded, a man touched and charmed by many suggestive memories. He bowed to Jess, and she gave him a grave curtsy, holding her head high, and looking him in the eyes.

The moon was ten days old, and the night clear and fine, and as the Moor Farm company crossed the moor, Wolfe, who was riding beside the gig, saw many other lanterns moving in the distance. They glimmered here and there, faint points of yellow light coming and going like the lights of boats on a rolling sea. Fleming's Cross lay westwards of Beacon Hill on a low ridge where the old coach road topped the moor. An ancient inn stood on the hill-top, with its sign of "The Rising Sun" swinging on a post before the door. It was in a little paddock behind the inn that the Lord of the Manor's Whispering Court was held.

The lanterns came jogging over the moor, some of them following mere sheep-tracks, others moving along the roads. As they neared Fleming's Cross the Navestock road began to fill with silent, shadowy, moving figures, all moving towards the hill-top. The lanterns that were carried gave rise to curious illusions. In a dark cutting under the shade of a clump of firs Wolfe saw a pair of white-gaitered legs, moving as though they had no body belonging to them. Nothing but the white legs and the lantern were visible, and the effect was so quaint that Wolfe pointed it out to Jess.

"Look there, somebody's legs have walked off on their own—and left the rest behind."

She laughed.

"Aren't they just sweet! They'll

When Germany Boycotted Jews

This scene, made in Berlin, is typical of those staged throughout Germany when the one-day boycott against all Jewish-owned establishments went into effect. Uniformed Nazis are shown pasting stickers on the window of a Jewish-owned shop. The large placard reads "Germans, Defend Yourself. Do Not Buy in Jewish Shops." And the smaller stickers read, "It is Forbidden to Purchase in This Jewish Shop."

Society Awaiting New Chapter in House of Rogers Love Story

Multi-Millionaire Oil Baron May Rewed Wife, from Whom He Parted Over Titled Son-in-Law, After Second Wife Wins Divorce.

Mrs. Mary Benjamin Rogers Mrs. Arturo Ramos

That Colonel Henry H. Rogers, multi-millionaire oil magnate, will remarry his first wife, Mary Benjamin Rogers, after his second wife, Mrs. Basil Miles Rogers, gets the Reno divorce, for which she is now in the Nevada divorce territory establishing a legal residence, is the prediction of New York society gossips, who have long followed the progress of the Romances of the House of Rogers. Should the reunion work out according to the course charted by Dame Rumor, it will mean the end of a series of marital difficulties involving father, mother, and daughter, Millicent, which has been paraded before the world for more than a decade. The trouble began with the marriage of Millicent, Colonel Rogers' daughter, to Count Ludwig Salm in 1924. Mrs. Rogers, it was said, favored the count as a son-in-law, but the colonel didn't have much use for a European title, particularly as the holder thereof was as poor as the proverbial ecclesiastical rodent. But Millicent married her nobleman by the elopement route and the battle was on. Discord reigned in the Rogers household, which culminated in Mrs. Rogers divorcing the colonel in Holland in 1929. Shortly after, he married Mrs. Basil Miles, widow of an American diplomat. But Millicent, now divorced from Count Salm and happily married to Arturo Ramos, wealthy Argentinian, would have no part of her step-mother, and once more discord led to the courts. If, and when, the second Mrs. Rogers wins her Reno divorce, New York society is betting that the colonel will be reunited to his boyhood bride, whom he married 33 years ago when a student at Columbia University.

Many Animals Are Helpless Victims Of Hit-Run Driver

At least two dogs, cats or other animals every minute are victims of auto drivers, according to George E. Russell, president of the Salem Humane society. A conservative estimate has placed the number at well over a million a year, which means at least two every minute for each 24 hours a day and 365 days a year, declares Russell.

"We are going to make every effort not only during this 'Be Kind to Animals' Anniversary, but at all times in the future, to impress upon automobile drivers that they must exert more care in avoiding mishaps to animals while driving," said the head of the local society. "This wholesale slaughter of animals must be stopped if we have to prosecute all offenders. Courts have held that animals are entitled to the same consideration along the roads as are human beings and we are determined to see that they get it."

"Some of these mishaps are, of course, unavoidable. A dog or cat may at any time step in front of a speeding car and suffer injury or death. We ask in these cases that they be reported immediately to the local society so that proper disposal may be made of the killed or maimed animal."

"It is the hit-and-run driver we are anxious to bring to justice. There is no human more despicable than the driver who will deliberately run down a frightened dog, cat or chicken scampering across the road, and then turn in glee to see the extent of the damage he has caused."

Homeward Bound from "World Cruise" Book Club Members "In West Indies"

Panama Canal Also Aply Described In Interesting Meeting At Methodist Church

Homeward bound from "A Cruise Around the World" members of the Book club at a meeting Monday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal church "visited" the West Indies by the means of an interesting paper presented by Miss Ella Beeson, and the Panama canal, through an instructive illustrated paper by Mrs. S. J. Broomall, chairman of the program committee.

The quotation for this meeting was "Oh, it's home again, and home again, America for me, I want a ship that's westward bound to plough the rolling sea." (Van Dyke). The roll call response was "Why I Belong to the Book Club."

Dream of Nations

"The building of a canal across the Isthmus of Panama has been the dream of many nations," Mrs. Broomall said. She continued, "As early as the beginning of the 16th century, when Balboa discovered the Pacific, he observed that it was only a narrow neck of land separating the two great oceans and as once conceived the idea of an artificial waterway. He appointed one of his followers, an engineer, to prepare plans and surveys but after working on the project for 10 years it was given up as impractical."

"It was predicted as early as 1833 that the canal would eventually be built by the United States. This nation took up the work in 1904."

"The Panama canal is about 80 miles in length from deep water in the Caribbean sea side to deep water in the Pacific ocean."

"We should not leave this interesting field without a brief visit with the natives of Panama," the speaker said.

"The native hut is built of what-ever is nearest at hand and cheap-est."

Describes Hut

"The hut exhibited has an earthen floor, and a sleeping room in the roof. The bedsteads consist of four poles attached to four uprights having rawhide or strips of bark running lengthwise and crosswise. The mattress is a blanket of what-ever one chooses to make it. There is little furniture, and that of a primitive kind. There is no cooking stove. In its place are three stones in one corner of the room on the floor. Smoke escapes through the opening that serves for a window or door."

"Most of the village people are wholly illiterate; some of them have heard of the glories of Panama city, but of the rest of the world they have not even a vague idea."

"The variety and thickness of tropical vegetation are wonderful. A dozen different varieties of plants may be found growing on a space 10 feet square."

"When the forest is cut away, and fruits, vegetables or grain planted in the soil, large returns are always realized. There is perpetual summer and an abundant rainfall. Every thing planted grows constantly."

Mrs. Cloyd Harris gave a review of the book, "Martha Berry" by Tracy Byers.

The club will observe its annual Guest night on Monday evening, May 1, with a dinner at 6:30 at the Methodist Episcopal church.

"The Dunce Cap"

Some idea of the heights to which milady's taste in millinery is soaring may be gauged from the creation worn here by Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Chicago society beauty. Reminiscent of school days when she was compelled to expiate one's ignorance by standing in the corner, the creation is aptly named "The Dunce Cap." It is of black Milan straw and grosgrain.

DRILL FOR PLAY AT LISBON HIGH

"Adam and Eve" Is Title of Production, Scheduled May 2

LISBON, April 18.—This year's senior play, "Adam and Eve," is now well under way. Production is scheduled for the night of May 2. The cast, which will be announced at a later date, includes eight members of the senior class.

The play, a three-act comedy, centers about the activities of one Adam Mason and Evelyn Baxter. The play is written especially for high schools, and is well adapted to the local stage facilities.

Mr. Scoutten, who is directing the play, promises a first class show every bit as good as "Kempy," the senior play of last year.

Tickets will go on sale in about 10 days. Members of the senior class may canvass the town. They will also be on sale at Hamilton's and Morgan's drug stores, as well as at the door.

It was agreed at the Hi-Y meeting Tuesday evening that the weiner roast shall be held in the last week in April. A committee to nominate officers for next year consisting of Ray Homestead, Robert Steele, and Ross Armstrong, was appointed by President Charles Pike. After the business meeting the discussion on "Gambling" was led by Joe DeVille.

The Girl Reserves enjoyed a weiner roast and steak fry at Willow Grove park Wednesday evening. There were about 25 members present.

Mr. Scoutten presented the debate teams with letters at the chapel program recently.

Those who received debate letters were: Charlotte Spiller, Charles Pike, Ivan Pisan, Howard Gilbert, Marguerite Hutton, Howard Clunk, Bob Cameron.

Charlotte Spiller and Charles Pike have received a letter for three seasons, and Howard Gilbert for two seasons.

Mr. Wise introduced a new ensemble called "The Woodwind Ensemble." The following players took part: Vito Rubino, Billy Frew, Eileen Nold, Jane Freeman, Paul Kuhns, Robert Moore, Virginia Maxwell.

Four selections were played and assembly was dismissed.

The four classes of the high school are to organize baseball teams as soon as the interschool track meet is completed. This subject was the important topic for discussion at the student council meeting last week. Also, a date was set for the nomination and election of members to the council for next year.

At this election the student body will choose three members from the present junior class, two from the sophomore and one from the freshman class. Next September the incoming freshman class will elect one member to the council. To complete the enrollment the presidents of the four classes will automatically become members of the council, and the president of the senior class becomes chairman.

EXPERT DRAFTS RECOVERY PLAN

Economist Submits Program to Senate Finance Committee

By VICTORY EUBANK
Associated Press Financial Writer
NEW YORK, April 18.—At the request of the finance committee of the United States senate, Dr. Warren M. Persons, prominent economist, has submitted a "program for the rehabilitation of our economic system" which, among other things, envisages a controlled dollar.

Dr. Persons, pointing out that "since the spring of 1931 industry and finance in the United States have been battered and tossed about by a financial hurricane of a violence never before experienced in the history of this country," makes the following suggestions to the committee:

- His Recommendations
1. Continue the embargo on gold and the suspension of gold redemption in the United States;
  2. Remove the restrictions on foreign exchange insofar as they do not involve the export of gold. Discontinue the efforts to keep the gold dollar at par with other currencies;
  3. Announce that it is the intention of the United States government to adopt measures which will restore the general price level to, say 90 per cent of the level of 1926;
  4. Announce also that the gold content of the dollar will later be changed to maintain that level;
  5. Abandon a fixed weight of gold as the monetary unit and substitute therefore some form of the tabular standard, based not on one commodity, gold but on the several hundred commodities that we produce and consume;
  6. Appoint a stabilization board for carrying out this objective;
  7. Announce that measures will be immediately adopted to secure the re-employment of idle men at their old jobs; and to this end—in gold, an amount equal to, say, Fred I. Kent for restoring confidence and initiating industrial and credit expansion;

Tax Bond Holders

"9. Tax the holders of bonds carrying the clause 'payable in gold dollars' of the present weight and fineness, who elect to demand payment in gold, an amount equal to, say, 105 per cent of gains resulting from such payment as compared with payment in currency. Distribute all except the 5 per cent of the proceeds of such tax among the payors of the bonds. Let the government keep the rest for enforcement;

"10. Do not wait for the international economic conference before taking the steps above enumerated. Let the United States take immediate independent action."

As a preliminary to his plan, or the adoption of any other plan for stopping continued deflation, Dr. Persons is of the opinion that it may be necessary to "take definite action for preventing run on banks."

In this respect, he believes, "it may be necessary for the government and the banks to guarantee, temporarily, the deposits of those banks which are allowed to open."

Lists Alternatives

Summarizing for the committee, the economist says:

"The alternatives before us are: First, voluntary deflation; second, unplanned-for deflation and further un-employment of confidence as a result of tinkering with various piecemeal measures designed to correct maladjustments; third, controlled credit and industrial expansion with the object of attaining a definite general price level, specified in advance, and the future stabilization of general prices at the specified level; and, fourth, uncontrolled fiat money inflation."

Dr. Persons advises the senate committee that, in his opinion, the third of these alternatives should be adopted.

beat his own former party in his last election to a House of Commons seat.

Big, bluff snub-nosed Herriot is the rare back-slapping type of French statesman. He likes nothing better than a rough and tumble political fight and his bawdy trousers, briar pipes, and antiquated watch-chain have made him a beloved character. Three times premier, he probably still would be today if he had not insisted on the war debt being paid.

Bennett Born to Riches

Premier Richard B. Bennett of Canada is a different type from these two. He is a shipbuilder's son, a millionaire, and never knew the pinch of poverty. Much of his early life was spent in the country which made him popular with the farmers.

Germany's delegate, Dr. Hans Luther, the new ambassador, already is in Washington.

Italy is sending Guido Jung, Mussolini's finance minister for the past year. A banker and financier, he represented Italy in the peace conference and came to Washington in 1922 for the naval conference.

The youngest delegate probably will be China's 39-year-old Dr. T. V. Soong, sailing today. He is not only a finance minister but is vice-chairman of the executive Yuan of the Nationalist government. Dr. Soong, who was graduated from Harvard, acts as premier also during the absence of Wang Ching Wei.

Japan's delegate is Viscount Kikukuro Ishii, 67-year-old former foreign minister and ex-ambassador to the United States.

Earnings Listed

CINCINNATI, April 18.—Earnings of $24,032, after charges, interest and taxes, for the three months ended March 31 were reported by the Procter and Gamble company.

Cyclists Killed

TOLEDO, O., April 18.—A boy and a girl on a bicycle were killed last night when struck by an automobile. They were Orin Riker, 15, and Helen Postelwaite, 12.

ALBANY Ore.—An ancient cannon that spent 60 years at the bottom of the Willamette river is being displayed here. The cannon, lost in the wreck of a river steamer, was dredged up recently. The cannon is of the same type that armed the "Constellation."

PETERSBURG, Ind.—A thief stole the Reverend Peal's overcoat while he preached a sermon at the Methodist church here.

SCHOOL NEWS AND VIEWS

Interesting Items For Students, Teachers and Parents

BY RALPH LONG JR.
Dr. Edwin Soper, president of Ohio Wesleyan college, addressed the student body in an assembly held yesterday.

"Where is America?" was the title of his address. It concerned United States relationship with other powers.

Dr. Soper stressed the point that the United States cannot exist in complete isolation and retain all the luxuries its inhabitants now enjoy. The United States must depend on certain Latin countries for coffee and sugar as well as these countries must depend on the United States for other commodities.

A key note of his address was that the United States must realize the importance of its geographical position and, therefore, is a neighbor to all nations and should act accordingly.

Orchestra practice was held yesterday under the supervision of Director Walter F. Regal.

The Quaker business staff held a meeting yesterday. Work on the Annual was discussed.

Many Salem High tracksters are warming up for the Annual Interclass meet which is to be held on Wednesday.

The senior class fund is $435.15 according to a report made by Miss Ethel Beardsmore, class adviser, yesterday.

Junior High

The Nature club held a meeting yesterday with 101 members present. An announcement was made of a bird-house contest to be held by the club, and recommendations were given for the making of nest-boxes.

Arrangements were made for a series of nature hikes to be taken in the near future.

The program consisted of discussion of things seen during spring vacation. One of the most interesting was reported by Arthur Brian, that of a yellow-bellied sapsucker becoming drunk on fermented sap.

Plans are being made for the Arbor and Bird day program which is to be presented by the Nature club.

A model airplane was demonstrated by Robert Bowers at a meeting of the Aviation club yesterday.

A committee composed of George Catlin, Gilson Koenreich and Robert Bowers was appointed by the president to draw up rules for a contest to be held in the near future.

The Book club was called to order by the president with 51 members present at a meeting held yesterday.

Jane Metzgar of the Scribblers' club gave an interesting review of the book, "A Barrel of Clams."

Miss Mary Campbell concluded the program with two clever readings, "Naughty Zel" and "When We Don't Say Our Prayers."

Thirty members were present at a meeting of the Scribblers club held yesterday.

A program consisting of "A Poem About April" by Betty Morris and "A Description of a Spring Day" by Melba Dale was featured.

The members then introduced three new members, Wade McGhee, Teddy Butler and Wilbur Houghton. Initiation consisted of: Reciting poems, emitting every third word; walking across the room without placing one foot in front of the other; singing a song; singing the verses of one song to the tune of another; impersonating some radio star; writing their names backward on the black-board.

Badges were presented to the new members, making them members of the "Saint Nicholas League."

League membership cards were given to some old members who had not yet received them.

The Music Club held a meeting yesterday with 79 present.

Margaret Simon and Sylvia Rutter had charge of the program, as follows:

Vocal solo by Betty Ketter, "Merry Widow," accompanied by Mr. Regal; Bob Denahay and George Laczner, accompanied by Elizabeth Rutter, vocal duet and trumpet, "Somebody Loves You," "Mother played the Organ and Daddy Sang a Hymn"; Charles Wentz, clarinet solo; Jack Bilan, violin solo, "Play, Fiddle, Play," accompanied by Mary Grafton.

HOME MAKING HELPS

LAUNDERING SUEDE GLOVES

Gloves are an important part of the sartorial scheme. And, since a great many of the gloves are washable, it is well to know just how to launder gloves and thus preserve their smart appearance.

There really isn't any special art in laundering washable leather gloves, yet we are continually hearing from women who botch this job. It should be really as easy as washing one's hands, provided one does not wait until the gloves are absolutely soiled. Plenty of soap must be used, mild soapsuds to prevent harsh rubbing and squeezing. Washing and rinsing waters must be kept at an even, lukewarm temperature. As chamois and doeking gloves become slippery and soft in water, it is best to wash them off the hands to prevent the seams from weakening.

Drying the Gloves

Suede, kid and other washable leather gloves may be washed on the hands with safety and ease. Don only one glove at the time, dip both hands in the suds, and rub the hands together as for washing. If one finger tips or any other part of the glove is much soiled, work a little soap jelly into the fabric. While the hand is still immersed in water, ease the glove from the fingers, turning the hand part inside out by pulling it down from the top. Wash the inner surface next, working the suds well into the finger tips, then squeeze out excess water by an easy pressure, wristward.

Roll the washed gloves in a Turkish towel for a moment, then blow in the fingers and stuff a piece of tissue into each glove to hold it open while drying.

In order to keep the gloves soft and pliant, remove the paper before they are quite dry and finger press them by drawing your thumb nail over the inner surface and by pressing the seams between forefinger and thumb. For further shaping, hold the finger tips in one hand and the tops in the other and give the glove a slight tug. If the gloves should become stiff and dry through neglect of any of these important steps roll them in a damp towel until they become pliable enough to press into shape.

COURT DEBATES BRITONS' FATE

One Reiterates His Guilt, While Others Affirm Their Innocence

fied evidence was brought against me, and whatever the verdict, I shall leave this court an honest man as I came into it."

Charles Nordwall was the next Briton to make his declaration.

"It was very painful for me to listen to the prosecutor," he said. "I take interest only in my work and always try to do my best. I always supported Soviet building plans and helped them every way I could."

Friend of Soviet

"My private life is lived solely in connection with my work and my own family. After the evidence against me here, and after the fairness I received from the OGPU (the secret police) after I was arrested, I have stated I have always been a friend of the Soviet union, and the court, I think, has documentary evidence to this effect."

"I feel sure in view of the evidence the judge can pass only one verdict—not guilty. At this moment I am still a friend of the Soviet union and not afraid to say so before all the press."

After Nordwall, L. C. Thornton, against whom, next to MacDonald, the prosecution believed it had its strongest case among the British engineers of the Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical company, spoke.

"At the beginning of the trial," Thornton said, "I pleaded not guilty and I still plead not guilty. I assert the evidence brought against me is unreliable. That is all."

Allan Monkhouse, the highest ranking of the British engineers, said:

"In addition to the severe charges brought against me here, the prosecutor in yesterday's summing up added what I regard as a very serious charge," Monkhouse said.

"He accused me of deliberately deceiving the British government in a communication I made on my release from Lubianka (the OGPU jail)."

Claims Charge Unfair

"It is very unfair to make this charge because I have made no statement at all that is at variance with the facts with the exception of the difference in time which I have explained."

"I was given every consideration in prison, for which I am thankful. But my only means of judging time was by shadows on the walls of my cell."

"The prosecutor also accused me," Monkhouse continued, "of giving wrong information about the way I was examined. I said I was examined by three men, and I still say that."

"He also stated that I said I was given no time for meals. Those meals were excellent but I was not left alone during them and one of the examiners always ate with me, and I won't admit that the conversation which took place during them was not of the character of an examination."

"I deny having done any spying whatsoever. I understand spying means the collection of secret military information. That I have not done."

"The second charge was wrecking. The prosecutor surprised me very much when he accused me of it. It is not true. I ask the court to remember that the Soviet government owes our company 15,000,000 gold rubles."

(The old Russian gold ruble was worth 5 1/2 U. S. cents.)

County Relief Garden Committee Shows How To Get Best Results

Recommendations Are Forwarded to Township Trustees, Mayors and Relief Organizations

LISBON, April 18.—County Extension Agent, Lisbon, can furnish you with names of growers. Funds will not be sufficient to buy potatoes at certified seed prices.

Buy all garden seeds in bulk. If possible, place your order for your entire needs at one time. Packaging may be done by the unemployed under your supervision, or, in some cases, by the merchant who orders the seeds. Keep costs as low as possible for good seeds. Funds will not permit retail buying of small quantities.

Provide fertilizer only where needed. E. Margaret McAdams vs. Thomas three 50x100 gardens.

Arrange for plowing to be done without cost wherever possible. Unemployed labor may be exchanged with several farmers for plowing gardens without any cash expense. Most backyard gardens may be spared.

Get Lowest Prices

Get cabbage and tomato plants at a minimum of cost. Many will grow their own plants if furnished a little seed. Many florists or other persons will grow plants for relief gardens at little or no cost. In some cases, unemployed labor has been exchanged for growing plants. Get your plants started now. Funds will not permit buying plants at retail prices.

Select the kinds of vegetables which will give the maximum returns and which will have the minimum of insect pests.

Include some leafy vegetables for greens in the list. They are essential for a healthful diet. Swiss chard will buy enough lettuce, Swiss chard and New Zealand spinach seed for the average garden.

Remember that peas, radishes, spinach (not New Zealand), kum, etc., are cool weather crops and must be planted early in the spring or late in the summer. They do little good in mid-summer.

Vine crops are not recommended except for experienced gardeners. Insects and diseases are very difficult to control. Beans for dry shell, can hardly be recommended in relief gardens. Grow green beans for canning.

The township clerk, city auditor or welfare agency in each subdivision should keep a register of those who receive seeds and a record of the amount and kind of seeds distributed. Record cards for each subdivision will be available April 21st.

ence of an "unnamed person" alleged to have received money from the accounts of Russell T. Sherwood, described by Seabury as Walker's financial agent. Although the name of this person was guarded closely at the hearings, afterward it became known that the person referred to was Miss Compton.

After resigning before the charges against him were passed upon by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Walker went to Europe. On the same ship were Miss Compton and her mother. They went to Cannes, where the ex-mayor and the actress were frequently seen together.

A Short Marriage

Miss Compton's first marriage was to C. S. Riches of Toronto, a union that ended in divorce in 1926. In February, 1931, she married Edward Dwyer Dowling, a dialogue director for the movies. After a honeymoon trip to Havana, from which they returned separately, a Mexican divorce ended that marriage.

Recently Walker was divorced by Mrs. Janet Allen Walker, who had been married for years to the man who once wrote the song hit, "Will You Love Me in December as You Do in May?" She filed suit at Miami March 9, alleging desertion, and the final decree was handed down on March 27.

Walker is 51 years old. Miss Compton is in her twenties.

New Era of Beer Calling For New Brand of Music

MILWAUKEE, April 18.—This new beer calls for new music, in the opinion of musicians who will make the melody in Milwaukee's reviving beer and palm gardens.

It looks bad for the trombone and the hot-cha motif. There is dawning a new day for the strings and for rational musical practice, Roland Kohler, secretary of the Milwaukee local of the American Federation of Musicians, said today.

"Mellow music for a mellow beverage seems to be the musical requirement of the times," Kohler observed.

"The old beer garden with the orchestra back of the foliage isn't here yet," Kohler said. "But observe the folk flocking to the cafes now operating here. It is apparent that the average age of the patrons is 10 years more than the average age of customers in the recent gin era."

THE DAY IN SPORTS

WHAT A MAN—DEMPSEY!
HERR MAXIE THERE, TOO.

THAT FAMED maestro of action and wit, Jack Dempsey, made a personal appearance before 5,000 fans at Motor Square Garden in Pittsburgh Monday night, displaying his powerful and pleasing personality before a howling mob of admirers that blocked him at every turn. If anyone at any time had ever doubted the former Max Baer's popularity with the fans, this doubt certainly was dispelled last night.

Herr Max Schmeling of Germany, also a former world heavyweight champion, was there, too. There was also a fairly attractive fight card, but the fight card and a three-round exhibition in which Herr Maxie sparred with three slow and easy-going members of his entourage, were but preliminary attractions—Jack Dempsey was the big show.

Now Max Schmeling is a fine chap, popular with the fight public, but no one last night denied our assertion that had it not been for Dempsey's appearance at the show, the audience would have numbered many less than were actually counted at the gate. This was shown when the two entered the ring separately. Max was given a great round of applause, the fans cheered for several minutes.

Then Jack entered the squared arena—man, you never heard such yelling, such cheering. The fans, men and women, exerted their vocal chords to the limit to pay tribute to the most popular fighter in history, who last night did nothing but walk around the ring, pat a clinching boxer on the back occasionally, and nevertheless was the cynosure of all eyes.

EVERYONE connected with the fight racket within a radius of many miles was present, including the famous gate-crasher, "One-Eye" Connolly, who was busy with an audience all of his own, signing autographs and reminiscing. Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion of the world, Jack and Eddie Zivic, "Sharkey Tom" Cox, Joe Jacobs, Herr Maxie's manager, and countless others. Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Smith, native Salemites, were present in the role of scribe and spectator, respectively, while another Salem product, Billie Eberle, now on the announcing staff at KQV, was the official announcer.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith—(Chet is now sports editor of The Pittsburgh Press)—also, if you don't know it, Mrs. Smith is the former Miss Esther Gallagher, (former Junior High teacher here)—and Eberle want to be remembered to their local friends, saying "howdy" to you all.

Then there were Manny Robins, popular Cleveland Athletic club director and who has developed many famous fighters, Ben Warfield ex-gentleman of the press, and their world champion, Carmar Barth, who was one of the principals in the semi-final fracas on the card. Barth, who will be featured in fight shows here soon, won an easy decision over Johnnie Riske, clever Pittsburgh mauler.

Another Ohio boy, Alabama Kid of Dover, made the Pittsburghers sit up and gasp when he kayaked Al Mantibano, Pittsburgh, in the fourth round of the main go.

HUDLIN VICTIM OF BIG RALLY; RED SOX UPSET

Cissell Stars, But Tribe Bows, 4-3; Senators Trim Boston, 2-1

With "Hard Luck" Willie Hudlin as the victim, the St. Louis Browns handed the Cleveland Indians their first defeat of the 1933 baseball campaign Monday, taking a 4-3 verdict as a result of a sudden sixth-inning batting spurge that netted the victors all their tallies.

Browns Rally Suddenly
Hudlin had been staked to what looked like a safe lead of 3 to 0—safe because he seemed to be having one of those great days to which he treats himself now and then. He had held the Browns to two hits in five innings and the explosion came with stunning suddenness.

Oral Hildebrand was called to the rescue, but before he could retire the side the third and fourth runs crossed the plate. Thereafter the Browns again subsided into a state of perfect helplessness, but the damage had been done.

Luck Punch
It was the first time since the season opened last Wednesday that the Indians have played behind anything but sensation good pitching, and they lacked the batting punch to win with an inferior brand.

Credit for the absence of dynamite in their maces belongs to Bump Hadley, the big right-hander who twirled for St. Louis. The Indians made only six hits off Hadley, with Porter and Cissell putting blows together in the fourth and sixth to produce the only runs.

Red Sox Look Good
Nothing so far this Major league season has been quite so startling as the magnificent showing of the Boston Red Sox, for years the doormat of the American league.

The standings coldly mathematical, show the Sox have won only one game in four but with a little luck it might just as well have been four victories and no defeats.

Maybe it won't last, but Manager Marty McManus has been getting just about the best pitching in either league. His moundmen, facing the Yankees and Senators, have allowed precisely 23 hits in four games, less than six a game.

"Breaks" Cost Opener
The "Breaks" cost the Sox their first two games with the Yankees. Paul Andrews, Bob Kline and John Welch held the champions to nine hits while Boston was clouting Vernon Gomez for 12 in the opener but Gehrig's homer with two on enabled the Yankees to win. Bob Welland granted only five safeties in the second battle but Charley Ruffing clouted a homer in the ninth and the champions won again, 6-2.

Dusty Rhodes and Kline collaborated on another five-hit masterpiece against Washington Saturday but once more the Sox went down, 2-1.

Such ill fortune couldn't continue indefinitely and Tom Yawkey's club finally broke into the winning column yesterday, spilling the Senators, 4-2, as Henry Johnson aided and abetted by Kline and Welch, held Washington to four hits. In the process, the Red Sox cracked Alvin Crowder's two year winning streak of 16 games in succession.

White Sox Win
The weather permitted playing of only one other game. The White Sox assaulted Vic Sorrell and Art Herring for five runs in the first inning but Detroit's Tigers came back to tie the count in the eighth and win in the tenth, 8-5.

The St. Louis Browns won their first victory of the season, bunting five hits off Willie Hudlin and Oral Hildebrand for four runs in the sixth and a 4-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians. It was Cleveland's first defeat. Irvine Hadley went the route for the Browns and gave up only six hits.

Wes Ferrell Figures to Win 20 Games

INTRODUCING THE INDIANS
Hopes to Be in Opener Against Tigers

More than twenty victories a year for his first four years in the big league... That's Wes Ferrell's record... Did his early twirling at Oak Ridge Military Academy in South Carolina... Was signed by Cleveland when only nineteen years old... Spent one season in Terre Haute and won twenty games... Next year he won twenty-one in Cleveland... Wes is not only a star pitcher, but is a very dangerous hitter... Hit nine home runs one season... Plays a good game of golf, scoring in the low eighties... Boasts an eight string guitar, which can strum in professional manner... Is a very hard worker in spring training... Usually gets a late start since he annually holds out... Has a pitching style all of his own which his younger brother is trying to copy... Entered baseball's Hall of Fame in 1931 when he gave the St. Louis Browns exactly no runs and the same number of hits... His brother "Rick" almost spoiled the game for him, but the play was recorded as an error... Runs a large

Derby Dope

(By Associated Press)
LOUISVILLE, Ky. April 18—The training campaign for the Kentucky derby, to be raced at Churchill Downs May 6, has been free from serious mishaps to principal contenders to date.
Last year several leading nominees were out down during the training grind, but so far this year there have been no reports of serious injury or lameness developing among the derby colony.

Rains have slowed up activities at Churchill Downs, but yesterday Head Play, nominee of Mrs. W. Crump, turned in an impressive workout in the mud. Running in the middle of the track, he breezed a mile in 1:44 2-5.

Warren, Jr., derby nominee of Colinet Farm which won a race last week, was favored to repeat today at the Lexington track. The competition was furnished by Isaiah, Thistle Play and My Blaze, derbies by eligibles, and Ridgewise and After Dark, non-eligibles.

Derby candidates in action yesterday:

FARTY (Mrs. Charles Amory)—Won six furlong dash for maidens three-year-olds at Havre De Grace.
GRACK FLYER (William Gallagher)—Finished fifth in a field of 10 back of Parity.
LONG JOIN (Lloyd Brothers)—Won claiming race for three-year-olds and up over futurity course at Lexington.

Favored for Kentucky Derby

Here is "Ladysman," owned by W. R. Coe and winter book favorite for the Kentucky Derby to be run May 6th. "Ladysman" was two-year-old champion of 1932 and many turf followers figure him to repeat as a three-year-old.

PLAY GOLF

with Seymour Dunn—Creator of Champions

The technical definition of Fundamental 3 is—swing the club in a correct slope. To make this clear the arc traversed by a baseball bat in striking at a ball flying high would be about horizontal. The arc traversed by a golf club is neither horizontal nor vertical but oblique. The angle of obliquity must line up with the position of the ball.

In driving, the angle or slope of the swing is less vertical than in using irons, because the driver being longer, makes you stand further away from the ball.

If you draw an imaginary line from the ball extending up through the center of your shoulders, you will have the correct slope of the swing for all clubs and all players. The correct slope of the swing is determined by the player's height and the distance the ball is from him. It is the duty of the right arm to guide the club handle through the correct slope and it is the duty of the right hand to guide the club head through the correct slope.

The following may be used as a simple and generally correct rule; in the back swing guide the club with your right hand to a position approximately above your collar. Do the same in going to the finish of the swing.

Shanking (striking the ball with the neck of the club) and heeling the ball are generally caused by too flat a swing, that is swing the club back to a position outside the right shoulder. The remedy is—guide the club up to a position closer to the back of your head by a more upright swing.

Next week I will explain Fundamental 4.

Toledo Club Loses To Minneapolis, 8-2

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, April 18—Not that it is a new experience, but American Association club owners today looked at the schedule and found that the weather owed them fifteen games of baseball.

Thirty two games should have been played to date. The standings showed only 17 accomplished due to rain and cold. The 154-game schedule lists 34 doubleheaders and if the weather doesn't straighten out soon, the players will get plenty of work.

Weeping skies yesterday washed out all but one game. Minneapolis took advantage of an opportunity at Toledo, defeating the Mud Hens, 8 to 2, to go into a tie for second place with St. Paul. Harry Holclaw, former International league hurler, gave Toledo nine hits, but fanned seven men and kept the blows so widely spaced that 12 of the opposition were left on base. Holsclaw participated in the slugging with a double which drove in two runs.

Wesley Ferrell

dairy in the winter time... Calls all the cows by their first names... Plays professional basketball, but the Indian management requested him to desert... Might be injured... The Yankees are usually his easiest club to beat... Has a good curve ball and a swell fast one when he uses it... Is now a two-year member of that ancient and select "Hold-out Club"... He can throw perfect strikes with his left arm, but hasn't got that southpaw complex.

In his first year as a big leaguer was regarded by Connie Mack as the rookie with the greatest chance he had ever seen... His ambition is to beat "Lefty" Grove, but so far has not been very successful... Bad breaks lost three or four of those duels... Takes good care of his arm because he hopes to remain in the "big time" for at least fifteen years... When his pitching days are over he will take to the outfield... Ought to be pretty good there, too... Wes Ferrell may be Manager Peckinpaugh's pitching selection for the opening day game at the stadium, April 19th with Detroit.

HELENA, Mont.—Grazing fees on all Montana Indian reservations, except that of the Blackfeet Indians, have been reduced 50 per cent this year, according to Murray E. Stebbins, secretary of the Montana Wool Growers' association. The reductions were ordered by the Federal Indian department.

Fans Help Grappler In Akron Ring Duel

(By Associated Press)
AKRON, April 18—Leo Alexander, a 195-pound piece of wrestling bulk, won a match from Bearcat Jones, the Cherokee Indian, last night but not until angry fans had freed Jones from a difficult position and halted the bout temporarily.

Alexander, a South Bend, Ind., grappler, had pushed Jones against the ropes and held him there, gasping for breath.

Angry fans, rushed into the ring, pushed Alexander away and released Jones. For several minutes, they refused to leave the ring, and returned to their seats only after police had persuaded them to let the show go on.

Even then, it took the Bearcat some time to regain his wind and it was several minutes before he climbed back into the ring only to lose the match before Alexander's fresh onslaughts.

This Takes the Brass Ring
Mu Kaun and Mu Prao, members of the strange, giraffe-necked tribe of Upper Burma, are pictured in their first American bed after their arrival at New York from their native land to be exhibited in the current circus. In infancy these women encircle their necks with several brass bands, and each year another ring is added, each larger than the preceding. An adult woman wears about 25 rings, which stretch their necks to enormous proportions.

Shaw—Shawer—and Shawest

The unshaven Shavian physiognomy is presented in three different poses to the skyline of Manhattan, as George Bernard Shaw, celebrated Irish dramatist, gets his first glimpse of New York from the deck of the liner Empress of Britain, on which he is making a world tour. The satirical playwright was the center of attraction for a horde of newspapermen and photographers, with whom he exchanged the quips for which he is renowned. Shaw later made an address at the Metropolitan Opera House.

NEWS IN BRIEF

GOLD BEACH, Ore. — Spanish gold coins dated 1700, 1712, and 1934, were found by a placer miner under eight feet of sand here. It is thought the coins were lost by Spaniards, who prospected into Oregon during the days when California was a Spanish territory.

PORTLAND, Ore. — Seventeen automobiles packed up on the streets and sold at public auction by the City of Portland recently, brought $177 to city coffers after towing charges were deducted. The city obtained $11.50 for old tires. One car sold for $5.

OWENSVILLE, Ind. — The Rev. D. R. Thomas had just concluded his sermon on "Hell" when a fire bell rang out. The entire congregation rushed from the church, to find a residence a few doors from the church, on fire.

PETERSBURG, Ind. — Burglars secured only one cent lost when they ransacked the safe and cash register of a lumber company here.

New Dramatic Hit Coming: 'The White Sister' Ends Today

THE opening of a new production starring Kay Francis and George Brent, entitled "The White Sister," is scheduled at the State theater for Wednesday and Thursday. There is a well chosen cast of supporting players including Glenda Farrell, seen here in "Wax Museum," and Allen Jenkins who will undoubtedly form an excellent comedy team. Then there are Monro Owsley, Helen Ware and Henry Kolker.

Interesting and Novel Plot
The screen play is taken from the story "The White Sister" and is everything the original title implies. The theme treats of a beautiful young dancer who marries an elderly man of great wealth. Extremely jealous of his young wife, he engages a private detective to watch her. Dogged by the spy and fleeing from a blackmailer, the heroine becomes involved in a series of startling situations that lead to strange and interesting entanglements.

A new contribution to the list of imposing screen achievements appears at the State theater in the picture, "The White Sister." The film will show for the last time this evening. In its poignant, touching narrative, its skillful direction, its effective camera work and the brilliant performances of its two well known stars—this picture stands out forcibly as an example of the very best in cinema art. "Talkie" Version Same in Theme
F. Marion Crawford's immortal story of the little Italian girl who enters the convent because she believes her lover dead, only to meet him again after she has taken the final vows, is too well known to need repetition here.

It is sufficient to say that the talkie version of the tale brings out its most forceful moments, describes the experiences of the romantic Italian girl and her soldier-lover in a series of warm, sympathetic, human episodes and brings the narrative to a close in as heart-breaking a climax as has been seen on the screen in a long time. The picture, of course, invites comparison with the Ronald Colman-Lillian Gish version of the silent days. The story has been changed enough to give it a World War setting and some of the action has changed completely but the essential theme is the same. The new picture is more earthly—its love scenes are warmer and more human but it falls short of the abstract spirituality of the Gish picture.

Both Stars Are Outstanding
Helen Hayes as the nun gives an outstanding performance. If it seems impossible to find a flaw in any of this popular star's character-

Scottsboro Witness

Victoria Price, one of the accusers of seven negro boys in the famous Scottsboro case, is shown on the witness stand at Decatur, Ala., as she testified for the State. The negroes are charged with attacking Miss Price and Ruby Bates, now missing, while "hoaxing" on a freight car. The men were sentenced to death at their first trial, but the U. S. Supreme Court granted a new trial.

"CURB SERVICE" BEER IS BANNED

for revoking permits of beer sellers found to be handling "hard liquor."

"We certainly will not stand for the selling of 'hard liquor,'" Dixon said. "We will not tolerate it because it is specifically prohibited by law, and because beer would be blamed for anything that happened as the result of the sale and consumption of the two together."

Within a week, the commission said it would have inspectors working throughout the state and Director L. L. Faris was authorized to appoint an inspector-in-chief and "such additional deputies as he may deem necessary to properly inspect the beer business."

Amplifying a previous ruling, the commission decided not only to ban beer deliveries on Sundays, but to prohibit the hauling away of the beverage from breweries and wholesale houses except on week days. Sunday sales by retailers are permitted, however.

Must Be Voters
The commission also ruled that license-holders must be registered voters of the state as well as citizens of the United States.

Persons holding beer permits may sell wine of not more than 3.2 percent alcoholic content, the commission ruled, fixing the tax at $1 for each 31 gallons, the same as on beer. The commission asked the attorney general to rule as to whether beer may be sold on dining cars or boats; whether a permit holder must be given notice before his license may be revoked; whether hospitals must have permits to serve beer to patients to whom it is prescribed by physicians, and whether county fairs and similar expositions may obtain temporary beer permits.
